You have the experience, you have the skills, and you have seen the perfect job. It should be yours for the taking but you have to get through an interview first. All candidates, from entry level to CEO, worry about how they come across in interviews. It is perfectly normal and completely human to worry, but you don't need to stress.

This book is designed to teach you how to prepare for any interview in order to present yourself as the perfect candidate for the job and harness your nerves to make them work for you.

Inside you will learn:

- How to research the company;
- How to learn more about the people who are interviewing you;
- How to prepare yourself for the interview;
- How to dress for success;
- How to feel at ease in the interview;
- How to cope if it all goes wrong;
- What questions you can expect to be asked and how to answer them;
- What sort of questions you should ask at the interview;
- How to deal with salary negotiations;
- What to do after the interview;
- And much, much more.

If you put the methods outlined in this book into practice you will have the confidence to walk tall into your next interview and you will be ideally placed to nail your dream job.
